What Aspires that Matters: Preparation for Studying Overseas and Embracing Cultural Differences (JC3T-S061)

Introduction

Over decades, studying abroad in the world's top-rated universities is always the dream of many elite students. The trend of globalization has sparked worldwide governmental scholarship for nurturing global talents in universities worldwide. Many young entrepreneurs and professionals have built their success and impacted the world in their fields by fostering innovation in global perspectives and collaboration with global partners.

In reality, however, studying overseas inevitably brings along many challenges. Living abroad may not be as easy as one thinks. Cultural shock and daily life difficulties may hamper your development abroad. After all, how can we ease the impact of cultural differences? How can we plan and prepare for tackling the challenges? How can we empower ourselves with available resources and support? In this seminar, our alumna, Natalie Lam, would share with you her answers to these questions.

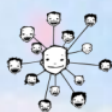

Programme Type / Level

Talk in Personal Growth and Social Development

Instructor

Natalie Lam is an alumna of the Hong Kong Academy for Gifted Education and a first-year History student from University College London (UCL). She attended a local secondary school in Tsuen Wan and obtained 5 in 5 subjects in the HKDSE 2019. Since 2018, Natalie has self-studied 8 subjects for the Advanced Placement Exams and has received the AP Scholar Award for two consecutive years. She is the recipient of the Hong Kong Scholarship for Excellence Scheme by the HKSAR Government and Laidlaw Scholarship by UCL. Natalie has also interned at Goldman Sachs International, London School of Business, Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, AXA Insurance Company etc. As the President of the UCL Asia Career Society, founder of the London Finance Conference and Campus Director of Project Access UK, Natalie believes in the courage to pursue one's passion and that underprivileged students could also make their own way.
