

LITTLE STORIES IN PHILOSOPHY – ANOTHER DOOR OPENED TO PHILOSOPHY

(E2PHI002C)

Introduction	Philosophy is the study of life reflection, closely related to our lives. Philosophical discussions help us understand the world and the self so that we can adopt a more reasonable attitude to master our lives. To be rigorous and accurate, most philosophical theories involve complex and difficult arguments to understand. To such a degree, ordinary people find it discouraging to explore philosophy. In fact, good philosophers can often explain intractable philosophical problems with interesting, and easy-to-understand stories and thought experiments. This course aims to arouse students' interest in understanding and thinking about philosophical issues by discussing intriguing stories and thought experiments put forward by prominent contemporary philosophers. In the end, they can reflect on what they have learned and established their own views on life.
