Let's become the hunters altogether with others to search for the treasure in this desert world.

Students will acquire two major communication skills and reflect on their own communication styles to review relationships. Well and effective communication skills serve as a foundation for maintaining and strengthening interpersonal relationships, and thus it makes you easier to communicate with others. Students will also find out the linkages between communication styles and own thoughts and affect in the workshop.

Students are encouraged to share own thoughts and feelings with sand tray and miniatures that can create a desert world in symbolic form.
