Application Deadline
13 May 2022 12:00 noon

Intended Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the programme, participants should be able to:

1. Know the attributes to be a respectful clinician;
2. Have a glimpse of new technological development in healthcare industry;
3. Borden career pathway choices in medicine;
4. Understand authority and responsibility as a profession in the career

◆ Introduction

What are the abilities required for the doctors to effectively meet the healthcare needs of the patients they take care of? How are these abilities related to the recent drastic technological advancement in the healthcare industry and training? Some examples of new technology are minimal invasive surgery, gene therapy, targeted therapy, 3D printing, 5G, AI and VR. How do they change current clinical practice and its quality? Are there sufficient to empower us to face ever-changing kinds of healthcare problems? Is our system now resilient and effective enough to face the persistent manpower shortage?

In this sharing, Dr. Eric So, Consultant Anaesthesiologist and Associate Director of Multi-disciplinary Simulation and Skills Centre in Queen Elizabeth Hospital, is going to share his experience and opinions in the above questions from the perspective of a clinician, a trainer and an administrator.
